GENERAL INFORMATION: The security interest search you have conducted is valid against security interests (eg encumbrances) registered in the participating jurisdictions of QLD, NSW, ACT, NT, VIC and SA. As it is not valid against interests registered in TAS and WA, you will need to conduct additional searches in those States.

The primary identifier for a vehicle is its Vehicle Identification Number (VIN). For older vehicles, it is its chassis number. While all identifiers should be used, failure to provide the primary identifier may result in a security interest not being disclosed and may invalidate the protection of this Certificate.

The information in this Certificate is only valid until midnight on the day it is issued. It should be obtained on the day you take possession of the vehicle and kept in a safe place should you need to prove you obtained the vehicle free of encumbrances.

Police in QLD, NSW, VIC and SA provide information on vehicles that are reported stolen. While this is provided to reduce the trade in stolen vehicles, a clear Certificate does not mean the vehicle is not stolen. If you have concerns, check with your local Police station. Some water damaged vehicles were recorded on the Queensland Register prior to October 2002 but this information is incomplete. If you want to know about the vehicle's registration history and written-off status, you should obtain a Vcheck Certificate issued by Queensland Transport through (Veda Advantage) by visiting "www.transport.qld.gov.au" (<http://AutobureaImages/>). There is an additional fee for this service.

DISCLAIMER: The Department of Justice and Attorney-General ('Department') is responsible for the administration of the Motor Vehicles and Boats Securities Act 1986 ('Act') and maintains the Queensland Register of Security Interests ('Register') and has appointed (Veda Advantage) to act as an information broker. The motor vehicle details and any relevant security interest information contained in this certificate were sourced electronically by (Veda Advantage) from the Register of Security Interests. Therefore, this Certificate is valid and has the same meaning as if it was issued direct by the Department.

This Security Interest Certificate ('Certificate') has been compiled from information contained in the Register and similar registers maintained by the participating jurisdictions. The Certificate is issued in accordance with Section 22 of the Act and is extracted from unverified information provided to the Department by the financial services industry, individuals, their agents and participating jurisdictions. As a result, the Department does not warrant the accuracy of any information in this Certificate. The information on this Certificate is current as at the enquiry date and time in Queensland.

No compensation is payable by the State of Queensland, the Chief Executive of the Department or a person acting under the Chief Executive's direction for any loss caused by, or partly by, relying on this Certificate.
